The Personalized Coordinated Program consists of upper-division coursework chosen in consultation with a faculty advisor from Liberal Studies and directed toward an interdisciplinary problem, theme, or issue. To promote an interdisciplinary approach, students take no more than 9 units of coursework from a single department and no more than 15 units from one of the three disciplinary areas: arts and humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences. Take one or two courses each semester of junior and senior year.

For Students who choose Interdisciplinary Research Option B: Senior Project via Independent Study

Senior Projects consist of a written research paper or creative work on a topic that relates to the interdisciplinary theme of the Personalized Coordinated Program. Option B requires completion of three units of Independent Study (499), distributed over the last two semesters prior to graduation. In the next to the last semester, one unit of 499 is devoted to the development of the senior project proposal. In order to register for 499, students need the approval of a full-time faculty member at CSUF who has agreed to act as project supervisor, and a registration permit from that faculty member's department. To successfully complete this one unit of 499, the senior project proposal must be approved and signed by both the project supervisor and a Liberal Studies advisor. The senior project proposal must include a clear description of the topic, a well-defined research plan, an annotated bibliography, and a specific schedule for the completion of the project, including realistic due dates for drafts or other indications of progress. In the last semester prior to graduation, the project should be completed by taking two more units of 499 with the project supervisor. If unusual circumstances warrant, a student may take all three units of 499 in a single semester with the joint approval of the project supervisor and a Liberal Studies advisor.
